1 TO ALL PARTIES HEREIN AND THEIR ATTORNEYS OF RECORD:

2 Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 62 and Local Rule 7-11, defendants Jeffrey Jones
3 and the Oakland Cannabis Buyers' Cooperative ("defendants") bring this ex parte application to stay
4 modification of the preliminary injunction order originally dated May 19, 1998 ("Preliminary 5 Injunction Order") pending appeal to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. Alternatively, defendants
6 request this Court to stay imposition of the modification until such time as defendants can submit, 7 and obtain a hearing on, an emergency request for a stay by the Court of Appeals. Defendants also 8 bring this ex parte motion to modify the Preliminary Injunction Order to permit distribution of 9 cannabis only to those patients who have a medical necessity for cannabis.

10 STATEMENT OF FACTS

11 On October 13, 1998, this Court granted the government's motions in limine to exclude 12 Oakland defendants' defenses and evidence at trial, and it found the Oakland defendants in contempt 13 of the Preliminary Injunction Order. Memorandum and Order Re: Motions In Limine and Order To 14 Show Cause In Case No. 98-00088 (Oakland Cannabis Buyers' Cooperative) ("Mem. Op. & Order")
15 at 13. The Court also granted the government's request to modify the language of the Preliminary 16 Injunction Order as follows:

17 The United States Marshal is empowered to enforce this Preliminary 18 Injunction. In particular, the United States Marshal is authorized to 19 enter the premises of the Oakland Cannabis Buyers' Cooperative at 20 1755 Broadway, Oakland, California, at any time of the day or night, 21 evict any and all tenants, inventory the premises, and padlock the 22 doors, until such time that defendants can satisfy the Court that they are 23 no longer in violation of the injunctive order and that they would in 24 good faith thereafter comply with the terms of the order.

25 Id. at 13. The Court stayed imposition of the modification until 5:00 p.m. on October 16, 1998, "to 26 give defendants the opportunity to seek interim appellate relief." Id.

27 In its discussion of the necessity defense, the Court assumed, without deciding, "that the four 28 OCBC patients who have submitted declarations and admit to having been present at the OCBC on 29 May 21, 1998, have submitted evidence as to their need for marijuana to permit a trier of fact to 30 determine if they have a legal necessity for marijuana." Mem. Op. & Order at 7.

1 On October 14, 1998, counsel for Oakland defendants Andrew Steckler telephoned Mark
2 Quinlivan and notified him of the Oakland defendants' intention to file this ex parte motion.
3 (Declaration of Andrew A. Steckler in Support of Defendants' Ex Parte Motion ("Steckler Decl."), 4 filed herewith, at ¶ _) Mr. Quinlivan indicated that the government opposes [does not oppose] the 5 defendants' request for a stay of imposition of the modification pending appeal. [Is this necessary?]

6 ARGUMENT

7 I. THIS COURT SHOULD STAY IMPOSITION OF THE 8 MODIFICATION OF THE PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION ORDER 9 PENDING APPEAL, OR ALTERNATIVELY, UNTIL THE COURT OF APPEAL RULES ON AN EMERGENCY MOTION FOR A STAY.

10 A district court has the discretion to stay the modification of an injunction order during the 11 pendency of an appeal "as it considers proper for the security of the rights of the adverse party."
12 Fed. R. Civ. P. 62(c); see also Fed. R. App. P. 8(a). This rule "codifies the inherent power of courts 13 to make whatever order is deemed necessary to preserve the status quo and to ensure the 14 effectiveness of the eventual judgment." Tribal Village of Akutan v. Hodel, 859 F.2d 662, 663 (9th 15 Cir. 1988) (quoting C. Wright & A. Miller, 11 Federal Practice and Procedure, § 2904 at 315 (1973)).
16 The factors regulating the issuance of a stay include: (1) whether the stay applicant has made a 17 strong showing that he is likely to succeed on the merits; (2) whether the applicant will be irreparably
18 injured absent a stay; (3) whether issuance of the stay will substantially injure the other parties
19 interested in the proceeding; and (4) where the public interest lies. Hilton v. Braunskill, 481 U.S.
20 770, 776 (1987). The Supreme Court has stated that "the formula cannot be reduced to a set of rigid 21 rules." Id. at 777. In determining whether to stay an injunction, courts in this circuit apply the same 22 standard used when considering a motion for preliminary injunction. Tribal Village, 859 F.2d 662 at 23 663. Under this standard, the moving party must demonstrate either (1) a combination of probable 24 success on the merits and the possibility of irreparable injury or (2) that serious questions are raised 25 and the balance of hardships tips sharply in its favor. Id. In this circuit, the Court may also consider 26 the public interest in certain cases. Id.

1 To obtain a stay, the movant need not show that the court’s initial ruling was incorrect; it need
 2 only show that the appeal raises serious questions of law. See Schwarzer, Tashima & Wagstaffe, 3 California Practice Guide: Federal Civil Procedure Before Trial § 13:222.1 (1998). As the court
 4 stated in Standard Havens Products, Inc. v. Gencor Industries, Inc., 897 F.2d 511, 512 (Fed. Cir.
 5 1990), each factor need not be given equal weight and “likelihood of success in the appeal is not a
 6 rigid concept. . . .” (See also Washington Metro. Area Transit Comm’n v. Holiday Tours, 559 F.2d
 7 841, 844 (D.C. Cir. 1977) (movant need not show “mathematic probability of success”). Indeed, 8 Judge Conti granted a stay even where the court was “doubtful as to the strength of defendants’ 9 showing of likely success on appeal,” where the movant’s showing on other factors of balance of 10 hardships, irreparable injury, and public interest was strong. In re Hayes Microcomputer Products,
 11 Inc. Patent Litig., 766 F. Supp. 818, 823 (N.D. Cal. 1991) (granting stay of injunction pending appeal 12 even after full jury trial concluded in finding of patent infringement).

13 This Court should exercise its discretion to enter a stay pending appeal here because several 14 factors weigh strongly in favor of a stay and none weigh against it. First, just like the movants in 15 In re Hayes, defendants here “have presented the court with persuasive evidence of the severe 16 hardship they will suffer if the [modification of the] injunction is not stayed pending appeal.” In re 17 Hayes, 766 F. Supp. at 823. Indeed, the Court itself has recognized “the human suffering that will be 18 caused by plaintiff’s success in closing down the OCBC.” Mem. Op. & Order at 13. Defendants 19 have submitted detailed and specific evidence which shows that at least four patient-members who 20 visited the Cooperative on May 21 have a medical necessity for cannabis, and they have submitted 21 additional evidence that many other patient-members also have a medical necessity. Moreover, 22 defendants have submitted detailed and specific evidence that cannabis has kept at least some 23 patient-members alive. The government, by contrast, has submitted absolutely no evidence that even 24 suggests any hardship it would suffer were the stay pending appeal to be granted. In sum, if ever the 25 balance of hardships tips sharply in a party’s favor this is that case. The death or physical suffering 26 of a patient-member of the Cooperative clearly constitutes “irreparable injury” requiring a stay.

27

1 Second, this Court is aware that serious legal questions are raised by this appeal. Defendants 2 believe they are likely to succeed on the merits on appeal based in part upon certain fundamental 3 legal and factual errors underlying the Court's Memorandum and Order. But, as discussed above, to 4 grant a stay this Court need not agree with defendants as to their likelihood of success on the merits
5 on appeal given that the balance of hardships tips strongly in defendants' favor. See, e.g., In re
6 Hayes, 766 F. Supp. at 823. In fact, the mere fact that the appeal raises serious legal questions is 7 sufficient reason for this Court to grant the stay. Schwarzer at 13:222.1.

8 Finally, this Court should consider the public interest in this case in its determination whether 9 to grant a stay pending appeal. The public interest in this case weighs heavily in favor of granting a 10 stay. The public interest is manifested in many different respects, including: the City of Oakland's 11 amicus brief previously filed in this case; the counterclaim in intervention filed by the patient-12 intervenors on _____; and the will of citizens of the State of California with the passage of 13 Proposition 215 in 1996. More specifically, the public interest will be served by maintaining the 14 lives and health of the Cooperative patient-members who have no alternative to cannabis to treat their 15 conditions.

16 Should the Court deny defendants' request for a stay pending appeal, defendants request, in 17 the alternative, that the Court stay the imposition of the modification of the injunction for a brief 18 period in order to allow defendants an opportunity to seek an emergency stay from the Court of 19 Appeals, and in order to enable the Court of Appeals to rule on an emergency motion for a stay.
20 Given the requirement that defendants first seek a stay from this Court, (see Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)), 21 defendants do not believe that the Court's present stay until October 16, 1998 provides sufficient 22 time to seek the necessary relief.

23 II. THIS COURT SHOULD MODIFY THE PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION
24 ORDER TO PERMIT PATIENTS WITH A MEDICAL NECESSITY TO 25 OBTAIN CANNABIS FROM DEFENDANTS.

26 This Court has the power to modify a preliminary injunction order during the pendency of 27 appeal from an earlier order granting or modifying a preliminary injunction "as it considers proper for

1 the security of the right of the adverse party.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 62(c). It may also modify the order
2 pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 60(b)(6).

3 As this Court has recognized, the necessity defense applies to defendants and patients who 4 offer evidence that (1) they were faced with a choice of evils and chose the lesser evil; (2) they acted 5 to prevent imminent harm; (3) they reasonably anticipated a direct causal relationship between their 6 conduct and the harm to be averted; and (4) there were no legal alternatives to violating the law. See
7 United States v. Aguilar, 883 F.2d 662, 693 (9th Cir. 1989). The Court also recognized that this 8 defense applies to at least some of the Cooperative’s members. Therefore, and in light of the dire 9 need of some patients for the only medicine that can help them, defendants propose the following 10 modification of the Preliminary Injunction Order:

11 [note: language here will change after talking w/ J. Jones on 10/14]
12 Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Oakland Cannabis Buyers’
13 Cooperative patient-members who fit the following description may 14 obtain cannabis from the Cooperative to alleviate and/or treat a serious 15 medical condition: patients with a doctor’s recommendation for 16 cannabis who (1) face a choice between suffering a serious medical 17 condition and/or death and violating federal law; (2) act to prevent 18 imminent harm; (3) reasonably anticipate a direct causal relationship 19 between their conduct and the harm to be averted; and (4) have no legal 20 alternatives to violating federal law.

21 This Court assumed without deciding “that the four OCBC patients who have submitted 22 declarations and admit to having been present at the OCBC on May 21, 1998, have submitted 23 sufficient evidence as to their need for marijuana to permit a trier of fact to determine if they have a 24 legal necessity for marijuana.” Mem. Op. & Order at 7. Moreover, this Court stated that it 25 “understands defendants’ argument that in this action the Court is sitting in equity and therefore must 26 consider the human suffering that will be caused by plaintiff’s success in closing down the OCBC.”
27 Mem. Op. & Order at 13. By entering the defendants’ proposed modification to the Preliminary 28 Injunction Order, the Court would avert, within the parameters of federal law, the “human suffering” it has recognized will be caused by the government’s success.

1 Defendants respectfully request that this Court either grant their request to modify the 2 Preliminary Injunction Order as specified above, or order that a hearing be conducted on this request 3 as soon as is practicable.

4 CONCLUSION

5 For the foregoing reasons, the Oakland defendants respectfully request this Court grant their 6 request for a stay pending appeal. Alternatively, defendants request that the stay be continued in 7 effect at least until such time as the defendants can submit, and obtain a hearing on, an emergency
